

WEEKEND HOTSPOT

L'OLIVIER WINE AND OLIVE ESTATE

A COUNTRY estate to make you feel like a king — or at the very least, a beauty queen.

FIND IT:

Nestled in the hills of Stellenbosch Kloof just off the M12, this estate was once home to former Miss World Anneline Kriel and her husband, former Sun International chief Peter Bacon.

ACCOMMODATION:

Since there were only two of us, we settled comfortably into the exquisite one-bedroom cottage, complete with fireplace, outside braai area and a massive en-suite bathroom.

The main villa is available for bigger groups of up to eight people.

It is beautifully fitted with every modern convenience as well as a billiard table, library and wine cellar.

We instantly felt at home and found it difficult to leave the next day.

FOOD:

Though both options are fully equipped for cooking up a storm, you can also opt for dinner to be provided. Andre Conradie, the manager who lives on site, cooked us a finger-licking, soft-as-butter lamb and tomato stew.

The next morning after our swim, the staff set the table for breakfast on our patio overlooking the olive trees and vines.

The coffee was fantastic but my boyfriend was rather disappointed when he realised it was a continental breakfast with no bacon — perhaps as a nod to the pot-bellied pig, Banger, who roams the property eating everything in sight.

Stellenbosch has many wonderful restaurants to explore, but we popped into the whole-foods market — which happens at Oude Libertas every Saturday morning — to buy food for lunch.

EXTRAS:

The wonderful outdoor living of L'Olivier is the reason we will return soon. We thoroughly enjoyed our ride up the hills on lovely horses, followed by a refreshing swim.

After a tasting of the estate's award-winning Sauvignon Blanc and Cabernet Sauvignon, we set off on the back of Andre's bakkie to watch the sunset over Table Mountain.

There is so much to do, but you also have the option of lazing about with the full DSTV bouquet at your fingertips.
